LOCATION

Falkirk is a large town in the Central Lowlands of Scotland, historically within the county of Stirlingshire. It lies in the Forth Valley, 23.3 miles (37.5 km) north-west of Edinburgh and 20.5 miles (33.0 km) north-east of Glasgow.

Falkirk has a resident population of 34,570 according to the 2008 census. The population of the town had risen over the past decade, making it the 20th most populous settlement in Scotland. Falkirk is the main town and administrative centre of the Falkirk council area, which has an overall population of 156,800 and inholds the nearby towns of Grangemouth, Bo'ness, Denny, Larbert and Stenhousemuir.

From a local context the property is situated on the southern side of East Bridge Street at its junction with High Street. Parking is available on Callendar Road and East Bridge Street.

DESCRIPTION

The subjects comprise a retail unit formed over the ground and first floor of a mid terraced building of brick construction. The ground floor provides open plan retail space with store and w.c. whilst the first floor provides open plan showroom area. There is an additional open plan workshop/store at first floor level with separate access for deliveries. The property was most recently utilised as a bike shop and is suitable for Class 1 retail uses.

PLANNING

All queries in relation to redevelopment/reconfiguration of the subjects should be addressed to Falkirk Council Planning Department.
